* The number of pairs having laid eggs (D)+the number of pairs not having laid (E) can be greater of the number of pairs checked during incubation (C), because some young have been observed only after fledging.

 The number of pairs having fledged young (G) + the number of failures during incubation (F) does not correspond to the number of pairs having laid eggs, because for 1 pair in Turin, 1 in Aosta and 1 in Cuneo egg(s) hatched, but the young died before fledging: it is not therefore an incubation failure, but a reproduction failure.
